Conditionals

Level 3: ★ ★ ★

1. Change the sentence into another conditional type:

- If she works hard, she will succeed. → (Second conditional)
- If I had more money, I would travel. → (First conditional)
- If it rains, the ground gets wet. → (First conditional)
- You can borrow the book if you want. → (Second conditional)
- Had I studied, I would have passed. → (First conditional)
- If I were a teacher, I would give less homework. → (Zero conditional)

2. Explain what the conditional sentence means in a real-life context:

- If you heat water, it boils.
- If she studies, she will pass.
- If I were you, I would say sorry.
- If you don't eat, you will feel weak.
- If I had a million dollars, I would buy a big house.
- You can leave early if you finish the work.
- Were I the teacher, I would give less homework.
- If it rains, we might cancel the picnic.

3. Write your own sentences for each conditional type:

- | | |
|------------------------------------|---------------------------------------|
| a) Zero Conditional about science. | e) Modal Conditional with "might." |
| b) First Conditional about exams. | f) Inverted Conditional about advice. |
| c) Second Conditional about money. | g) Zero Conditional about health. |
| d) Modal Conditional with "can." | h) Second Conditional about dreams. |

4. Write a short dialogue (3–4 exchanges) using these conditionals:

- | | |
|--------------------------|---------------------------|
| a) One Zero Conditional | c) One Second Conditional |
| b) One First Conditional | d) One Modal Conditional |

5. Read the paragraph and identify the conditionals. What type is each?

I love going on picnics, but only if the weather is nice. My mother always says, if you don't pack food, no one will eat, so I make sure to prepare sandwiches. Last time, my friend forgot the mat; I told him, if you had remembered it, we could have sat under the tree. Sometimes I wish I had a bicycle—if I had one, I would ride to the park every morning. My brother laughs and says, you can borrow mine if you promise to bring it back!

- | | |
